It's not just any random Vietnam battleground. No, it's groups of people that have been in Vietnam way too damn long to realize what they are doing, shooting at each other with rusty guns held together with bandages and duct tape. Squads are forced to stay close together lest the loners and stragglers are descended upon like starving guard dogs leaping upon a man made out of delicious smoked ham. Rock n' roll blared from radios attached to all vehicles will ensure that, at least once in your life, Creedence Clearwater Revival is the last thing you hear as your body is crushed underneath the tank treads. Every reference to a Vietnam war movie IS IN HERE - AND YES, THIS MEANS YOU TOO CAN BLARE RIDE OF THE VALKYRIES AS YOU GUN DOWN THE VIETNAMESE FROM THE COMFORT OF YOUR HUEY HELICOPTER, MARTIN SHEEN, YOU CAN BE MARTIN SHEEN YOU ARE BEING VERY IMMERSIVE, IS THAT WHAT YOU WANT?. Paladin Balanced 10V10 <3. Like others i think there is a big need for more interaction with people and maybe things. The atmosphere is really good and everthing looks very immersive. But as long there is no interaction , this experience is not so good as is could be. It would be nice for example to go to the DJ and interact wirh him to change the songs, or that you can invite someone to dance wirh you , or you can tell someone to leave the Disco. Also important is that there are more diversity in the dance moves , because after a while , the people look like they are in a timeloop. And maybe a little bit rework of the faces , because some of the people look really creapy....

Also would be great to see maybe some more settings like a 70% Disco or a 50% Setting. Something like your personal Disco time machine.

Finally i think the concept has good potential when a few things will be add in the future. Just to see for example how was the atmosphere in a disco at the specific time..... This game is a lot of fun. Can take a little getting used to moving so you don't get motion sick, but the puzzles are lots of fun! There isn't a way to save your progress though, so if you want to stop playing and come back later, you have to restart the game.. Awesome idea! Love the financial support of the creator community. The game is also quite fun and cute!

It may seem like a steep price for what is just one part of game development; but the amount of time and effort it saves you is invaluable. It took me 10 minutes to create a one-two punch for my character rig. 10 minutes. Like I said, invaluable.. It's a fun little "mind game" but I think it would be even better if there other parts of the game was free too not just "The mine". Game:

Follow our curator page "First Person Exploration and Puzzle Games" for more games like this! Basically the same as "We Were Here" \(which is free\), but buggier.

The in-game radio didn't work well, so we had to use discord to communicate.

The first puzzle is artificially difficult because the game lies to you, so you need to guess the correct solution. The second puzzle is difficult only because it's broken; half the time the water doesn't stop rising when it's supposed to \(and stays risen even after resurrecting\). After several more poorly-designed puzzles, we eventually gave up because the riddles+tables puzzle appeared to be completely broken \(the items you need to pick up are in a random order, unrelated to the order given in the book\)

[I love this genre, but both the puzzle-design and the programming are too poorly done to recommend this game. I'd recommend instead checking out similar multiplayer puzzlers: We Were Here, We Were Here Too, and Last Will.. In short this game is simply unplayable it has more bugs than your average Beehive!

It's a shame as it has a good premise and nice atmosphere

1\\10. First impression:

Sensational! Questerium warps the Hidden Object genre into the 21st Century - finally :-) More interactivity, more 3D, more everything. I am looking forward to a very enjoyable game.

Even gamers who prefer other genres (e.g. I'm basically an FPS player) should take a look. The pricing seems ok.. Even if it is on sale for 1 cent, don't buy it. Anyone with almost no knowledge of programming can make this game.
